A LITTLE SOMETHING FOR YOUR NIGHT

THE ELECTION NIGHT

PARTY PACK

FREE

For living rooms, campaign offices, neighborhood gatherings and anyone putting California on the biggest screen in the room.

PRINT IT. SHARE IT. ENJOY THE NIGHT.

Signal is not the theme. We just made the party easier.

A GOOD PARTY DOESN'T NEED A PRODUCER.

01

PUT RESULTS ON THE BIG SCREEN

Open Election Signal, enter Display Mode and choose the counties or races your room cares about.

02

PRINT THE NEXT FOUR PAGES

Set out the race picks, conversation cards and results decoder. Pens help.

03

LET PEOPLE WATCH THEIR WAY

Some guests want every number. Others want snacks and good company. Both are correct.

04

SHARE ONE GREAT MOMENT

Take a photo of the room - only with permission - and share the party, not anyone's private information.

THE THREE THINGS TO HAVE READY

A screen · a charger · a calm backup plan

PICK FIVE.

NO EXPERTISE REQUIRED.

Choose five races before the first results arrive. Write what you think will happen and the one thing you want to learn. This is a conversation starter, not a wager.

BETTER QUESTIONS. BETTER NIGHT.

Which local race matters most to your everyday life?

QUESTION 02

What result would genuinely surprise you tonight?

QUESTION 03

Which public office do people understand the least?

QUESTION 04

What issue deserves more local attention after Election Day?

QUESTION 05

What makes you trust an election result or source?

QUESTION 06

What is one thing you admire about anyone willing to run?

READ THE NIGHT WITHOUT THE DRAMA.

LEADING

A candidate has more votes in the current count. That is not the same as winning.

RACE CALLED

A responsible decision desk believes the remaining vote cannot change the outcome. It is not certification.

CERTIFIED

The authorized election official has completed the formal canvass and certification process.

REPORTING

A percentage may describe precincts, batches or an estimate. Always read the source's definition.

LAST UPDATED

The timestamp matters. A quiet screen may mean the source has not posted a new batch yet.

BEST HABIT

Check the source, timestamp and status before sharing.

CALIFORNIA IS ON THE BIG SCREEN.

Follow the races your room cares about.
